To THE Reader, There needs no apology for the i Publication of this little Book. The radical errors of much of the Discipline of Friends, and of the admiistration of it, as hitherto practised by the Society and now in the full tide of successful experiment with the Orthodox party, require hot a moments serious Consideration, to excite the just abhorrence and indignation of every virtuous mind, The adoption of a Creed, intended to discriminate between Orthodoxy and Heterodoxy; and to serve as an engine of oppression and restraint, against that freedom of mind which is the characteristic of a genuine Quaker, needs only be known to be rejected Hence, the author of the following pages in his method of arrangement, has studied more to maintain the prominency of facts, than arguments; leaving to the reader the privilege of forming his own conclusions; and resting upon the conviction of his own judgment. The plates are introduced without reference to any particular relation of facts; and are used merely to shew the absurdity of Orthodox pretensions, by the evidence of the external senses They are of themselves ao completely illustrative, they require neither comment, nor recommendation. The signs of the times are prognostic of events, which may lead to the development of greater scenes of evil, in the principalities and powers of this degenerate Society, than perhaps will be eoncaded by the generality of readers. That this little book, may contribute to the complete development I of the interesting subject, is the object and desire of THE AUTHOR.
