Warning: For Mature Adult Audiences. Contains language and actions some may deem offensive. Sexually explicit content. MF In book five of Galactic Cage Fighters: The Sledge Hammer is one tough, mean, and very huge fighter for the Galactic Cage Fighters Association. He doesn't take crap from anyone and if a person makes the mistake of pissing him off, they pay for it—painfully. He prides himself on being able to handle any kind of situation that arises. He is unafraid of anyone or anything—well except for the kids. A terrible tragedy leaves the halfsie fighter the sole guardian of his sister's children. His life is about to be turned upside down and inside out. No longer responsible for just himself, he must find a way to balance working the hectic schedule as a top GCFA fighter—with being a single parent. He finds that it is not as easy as he thought. How much trouble can three young children be? Molly Maynard is ready for a fresh start. The divorce she has been waiting two long years for is finally within her grasp. She wants a new life for herself, free of her lying, cheating ex-husband. When she ends up homeless, jobless, and with limited funds available to her and with few choices remaining, she agrees to take a job traveling with the Galactic Cage Fighters' Association as a nanny for one of their fighters. Hammer expects the usual nanny the company sends for replacements—the stuffy, uptight, old, and half-senile. The nannies never last long around his kids. He doesn't think the newest nanny will be any different. It's a real shame because Nanny Molly was hot! He needed this nanny so he was imperative he keep his mind and—his hands—off the nanny and her curvaceous body. Will Molly be able to ignore her growing attraction to the enormous fighter? Will Hammer be able to keep his relationship with Molly strictly business? And will either of them survive the kids?
