Why has the death rate from adult cancer only dropped by 5% during the time that children have improved by 57%? If I were an adult with cancer, I'd want to know the children's secrets. Physician-author Diane Komp uses tender stories of her work with children to show how medicine, science and spirituality are compatible. The Yale medical professor shatters myths and teaches us how to beat the odds. Woven throughout this tender memoir is the story of an extraordinary baby her doctor named "Crumb Bunny," who beat the odds. So can you!
